

Old Lady Killed by Cattle.

County Limerick Tragedy

An aged unmarried lady named Margaret Madigan, residing at Knockadurhan, Shanagolden, received terrible injuries when, it is stated, she was attacked by cattle in the lands of which her nephew was caretaker, on Saturday night. She lived only twenty minutes afterwards.

At an inquest held by Coroner Cussen, solicitor, Dr Nolan said the injuries, which included fractures of the rib, the leg and internal injuries, would be consistent with having been mauled by cattle.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence was returned.
