still no change in the dispute at Hospital following the refusal

Mr Alfred J. Sexton, auctioneer, stated that he examined the premises. There was no sanitation at all, and in his opinion this rendered them valueless nowadays.

His Lordship—Is there any sanitary accommodation in the locality at all?—No, my lord.

His Lordship—Is the City Manager taking any steps to introduce sanitation there?—I cannot say, my lord.

Francis Clarke, Valuation Inspector, described the premises as being very good.
They were in a second rate locality, and contained a nice little shop. He placed the valuation at £6—£5 15s for the house and 5s for a garden at the back.

His Lordship reduced the valuation by 15s in respect of the house.

FUNERAL OF MR. P. J. RYAN, C.E.

There was a large and representative attendance at the funeral of Mr Patrick J.
Ryan, C.E., Deputy County Surveyor, yesterday morning from St. John's Cathedral to the New Cemetery, Tipperary. At 10 o'clock Office and Requiem High Mass was sung for the repose of the soul of the deceased, after which the coffin, covered with wreaths of natural flowers, was removed to the motor hearse. The cortege then formed and left for the last resting place. It was a remarkable tribute to the memory of the deceased, whose tragic passing has evoked widespread regret and deep sympathy with his widow, family, and relatives in their bereavement.

The chief mourners were—Mrs Ryan (widow); Patrick and Thomas Ryan (sons); Misses E. and R. Ryan (daughters); Thos.
F. Ryan, Matthew Ryan, and John Ryan
