Death of a Limerick Priest

IN ENGLAND

General regret is felt at the death at Howden, Middlesborough, England, of Rev Father James Skeahan, F.R., son of the late Cornelius Skeahan and Mrs Skeahan, Clare street, Limerick, and brother of Rev Cornelius Skeahan and Mr P J Skeahan, of Dun Laoghaire. The deceased priest, who had a very brilliant collegiate course, had been ministering in England for some years back, and by his zeal, energy and other good qualities had won the golden opinions not only of his flock but of all who knew him. To his bereaved relatives and numerous friends we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

The remains arrived in Limerick this morning from Dun Laoghaire, and were met by a large concourse who marched in the cortege to Mount St Lawrence, the interment being in the family burial ground.

The chief mourners were Messrs Patrick Skeahan, Cornelius Skeahan, and Mrs Skeahan, sister-in-law.
