
Death of a Distinguished Dominican

The Rev Thomas Barrett, a well-known distinguished member of the Dominican Order, died in Galway on the 18th inst. He joined the Order in 1891, having studied at Maynooth College, afterwards serving in the West Indies and South Australian Missions. He was born in Youghal (Killeagh) in 1869.

He was attached to the Limerick Priory for some years, and only went to Galway recently.

Office and Requiem Mass were solemnised to-day, after which the interment took place.
