

number of... in 1900 and two survives of £30 each, charged of having stolen postal packets.

Limerick Woman's Death

Collapsed in Sea

While bathing in shallow water at Salt-hill, Galway, Mrs Mary Killen, of Sir Harry's Mall, Limerick, was seen to fall. She was carried to the nearby Garda station where artificial respiration was tried for about an hour, but without avail.

Mrs Killen was bathing with her daughter, and when she fell Garda Duffy and a man named Fitzgerald went to her assistance. Dr McDonough, Galway, and Dr Coughlan, a visitor, tried artificial respiration.