little can be realised of the immensity the task of catering and looking after over 1,000 children, or of the weeks of preparation and work it entailed.
Youghal, with its wide beach, was, on investigation, found to be the only suitable place to which such an excursion could be run with safety; but even this spot is altogether too far from Limerick for an outing of the kind, and the Committee, having regard to other matters also, came to the conclusion that another excursion is undesirable, for this year at any rate.

The Committee have a small sum of money on hands from previous excursions, and have made tentative plans for utilising this in a most deserving way.
