A READY MARKET.

The announcement that the Condensed Milk Company of Ireland, Limited, are open to buy large quantities of separated milk from milk producers and farmers will have the effect of directing attention to the value of this commodity at the present time. In the flush season of the year difficulty is usually experienced by producers in disposing of their milk, and especially does this apply to separated milk. In the circumstances, a ready market where all surplus milk can be absorbed without trouble or inconvenience, must be very welcome. This is more readily understood when it is known that a handsome profit can be realised by producers.

The Condensed Milk Company are prepared to pay one penny per gallon for separated milk, and considering the price of new milk at the present time, this is undoubtedly a very profitable outlook. The offer remains open during October, November, and December—three vital months for farmers—and it is anticipated that it will be largely availed of.
