REV. BOLTON WALLER DEAD

Well-known Writer.

The death has taken place in a Dublin hospital, after an operation, of Rev. Bolton Charles Waller, M.A., Rector of Clondalkin. He was aged 46.

Mr. Waller was the son of the late Rev. Bolton Waller, of Kilpeacon, Co. Limerick. He was educated at Arvon School, Bray, and Dublin University, where he had a brilliant career. He won the coveted Brooke Prize in Classics in 1912, and later gained first-class honours in classics, modern history, and English literature.

One of his most notable achievements was the winning of the Filene Prize of £1,000 offered by a wealthy American for the best essay on International Peace.

The Prize was open to students of all the Universities in the world.

Mr. Waller was deeply interested in the League of Nations and was Secretary of The League of Nations Society of Ireland.

He served with the Army Service Corps in Mesopotamia during the war.

Mr. Waller once contested Dublin University for the Dail. He spent two years in the service of the Free State Government in connection with the Boundary question. He was Secretary of the Peace with Ireland Council formed in 1921.

Among the best known of his publications were "Towards the Brotherhood of Nations" (1921), "Ireland and the League of Nations" (1925), and "Paths to World Peace" (1926).

by Mr. Carroll, the Commission mously agreed to allow an allowance of £20 per year, plus bonus, to the teachers appointed from the existing staff.

DOMESTIC INSTRUMENTS

Two applications were received for the position of permanent whole-time officer of Domestic Economy. They were those of Miss Margaret Leahy, Clonsilla, and Miss Nora Hayes, Lisseycasheen.

On the proposition of Mr. McCarthy, Miss Leahy was appointed to the position of permanent whole-time officer of Domestic Economy at the usual rate of remuneration.

For the position of whole-time officer of manual instruction, eight applications were received.

On the proposition of Mr. McCarthy, Miss Leahy was appointed to the position of permanent whole-time officer of Domestic Economy at the usual rate of remuneration, subject to the sanction of the Commission.

The other applicants were: Miss Mary O'Connell, Monkstown, Co. Cork; Denis O'Connell, The Market Street, Cork; Miss Mary O'Connell, Killorglin; Richard Lillis, St. James's, Dublin; C. Lynch, Killaloe; J. Shanahan, Hill, Tivoli, Cork; and P. O'Connell, Crecora.

NO TEACHING EXPERIENCE

The C.E.O. said that none of the candidates possessed the Cead Ceim, and the majority of them had not completed their full training. Miss Leahy had no teaching experience, but had two years practical experience.

The Chairman expressed the hope that the Department would sanction the appointment of Mr. Liston, but that it would be well to send on the matter to the Commission for a final decision in any case.

Twenty-one applications were received for the position of temporary teacher of commercial subjects.

QUALIFICATIONS IN COMMERCIAL SUBJECTS

The C.E.O. said that none of the candidates had the full qualifications required according to the terms of the Commission's regulations. Many of them passed the examination for the Teachers' Irish Certificate, but the greatest difficulty was the lack of practical experience.

Rev. Fr. Moloney proposed the appointment of Miss Margaret O'Connell, Cappamore, Co. Limerick.
