

---

Fall From Roof

---

Young Limerickman's Tragico Death

While engaged in repairing the roof of a house that had been damaged by the storm in the New street, Limerick, on Wednesday, two workmen named Patrick O'Donovan and Joseph McNamara, fell to the ground, a distance of some thirty feet. O'Donovan struck the ground on his head, and was rendered unconscious. McNamara escaped with minor injuries. Both were rushed to Barrington's Hospital, where O'Donovan succumbed. He was a married man, aged 20 years, and resided at Barry's Lane, Boherbuoy.

---

Inquest Adjourned

An inquest was opened on Thursday by Mr J S McNeice, solr, and after evidence of identification was given, it was adjourned for the attendance of McNamara, the injured man, who is still detained in hospital.

---