

German exports on the high seas. It is thought possible that the Dutch Government may decide to stop their own exports to Britain, a decision which the British Government say would hurt Holland more than England.

It was announced in Bucharest that the Rumanian Government has resigned after failing to come to an agreement with the German Trade Mission.

Germany apparently made demands for greater supplies of oil and petrol from Rumania, and the Government has refused to accede to the demand.

The Trade Mission has returned to Berlin.

Germany is at present preparing to stage a great trial of the men alleged to have been responsible for the Munich Cellar explosion.

A CODE STORY.

To-day the German Press gives great publicity to the matter, and carries extraordinary stories of having secured the British secret code, and to have conversed by the code with the English Secret Service.

Reports are circulating in Paris from an official German source to the effect that 17,000 Czechs have been killed following the Czech demonstrations.

It is stated that about one-third of those executed were Jews, and that storm troopers imported to Prague are availing of every slight provocation to indulge in further atrocities.

AIR WAR.

The French War Communique to-day reports that five German planes were brought down in French territory yesterday, and a large German bomber was forced down in Belgium. In the intense aerial warfare carried out the French lost one machine.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE

A marriage has been arranged and will take place before Christmas between Daniel O'Connell Doyle, Designer and Assistant Manager, Dripsey Woollen Mills, Co. Cork, only son of James A. Doyle, Esq., Solicitor, Limerick, and of the late Mrs. Doyle, and Nora O'Callaghan, only daughter of Thomas O'Callaghan, Esq., Merchant, and of Mrs. O'Callaghan, Coachford, Co. Cork.

MARRIED WOMEN'S ACT "DEAD."

Owing to a recent High Court decision, the Married Women's Maintenance Act was a dead letter, said District Justice Gleeson, in a claim for maintenance against Patrick Stapleton, farmer, Bailina, who said that he had not lived with his wife for 29 years, and then only for four months. Holding that Stapleton—who said that the farm he worked was his sister's—had no means, the Justice dismissed the case.

GLIN STARTS FAINNE BRANCH.

A branch of the Fainne has been established at Glin, the committee being composed of Messrs P. O'Carroll, J. O'Driscoll, J. Fennell and P. Culhane. Seventeen people presented themselves for examination to qualify them for membership, and they were congratulated by Messrs S. Hoare, Abbeyfeale, and S. O'Mahony, Duagh, the examiners, on their excellent answering.

FLOODS AT ATHLONE.

The water level of the Shannon at Athlone has risen so far during the past few days that hundreds of acres of land south of that town are inundated. No serious damage has been caused so far, it was remembered and young men, and was a dissipation of public money over which no decent Government could stand. He made it clear that he differentiated between these young men and the married men living with their families, and unable to get work.

INCREASED PRICES

For Irish Bacon Exports

Increased prices for Irish bacon exports are almost certain to follow negotiations which have just concluded in London between representatives of the Department of Agriculture, who went over from Dublin to discuss the matter with officials of the British Ministry of Agriculture. Increased prices has been reached. Agreement on increased prices has been reached between the officials concerned, and has been sanctioned by Dr. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture.

IN THE DAIL.

The new price has yet to receive the sanction of the British Minister of Supplies, but it is considered unlikely that this will be withheld.

It has been arranged to resume the debate on the Labour Party motion with regard to rates of wages paid to workers on minor relief schemes.

REVERED LADY

Death of Mrs. A. Morrow

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Anna Maria Morrow, which took place at her residence, Wellesley Terrace, yesterday, at an advanced age. She was widow of ex-Head Constable John Morrow, and a lady who by her kindly disposition made numerous friends. Mrs. Morrow was always ready to do a good turn, and to befriend those who sought her charity. She was for sixty years a parishioner of St. Munchin's. There will be much sympathy for her sons, William and George, and her daughters in their bereavement.

NATIVE OF CLARE.

PRESIDENT OF GALWAY COLLEGE DEAD.

Rev. Andrew Sexton, M.A., the distinguished President of Coisde Eimde, Galway, whose death occurred on Tuesday, was a native of Liscannor, Co. Clare. He read a distinguished course in Maynooth, and on leaving was appointed Professor in St. Mary's College, Galway. He was subsequently C.C. Gort, Co. Galway, and later President of Leinster College of Irish in Dublin, from which he came to Galway as President of Col-
