HOSPITAL ECHOES

---

(From Our Correspondent).

Death of Aged Resident.

The death took place in the County Home, Newcastle West, of Mrs. M. MacCauley, formerly of Emly Road, one of the oldest of the generation now passing away. A woman of quiet and retiring disposition, but of a kindly, warm-hearted good nature, her gentle manner, friendly if shy smile, and calm serenity endeared her to all who met her, while to her intimate acquaintances she was immensely popular for her many fine qualities and characteristics. Her remains were removed from Newcastle West to the local cemetery, where the interment took place, a large attendance of townsfolk and parishioners being present at the graveside. R.I.P.

Marriage in Knocklong.

The marriage took place in the Parish Church, Knocklong, recently, of Miss Mary Clancy, a member of the staff of Walsh and Sons, Knocklong, to Mr. Jas. Cloughessy, Kiltelly. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Crosse, C.C., Knocklong. Miss Cissie Doyle, Knocklong, was bridesmaid, the best man being Mr. Jack Condon, Kiltelly. The bride was exceptionally popular in her native district and especially amongst the other staff members and she was the recipient of numerous presents and felicitations on the occasion of her happy event.

Successful Law Student.

Mr. Laurence Walsh, Main Street, was one of the twenty-one successful candidates at the recent solicitors' intermediate examination held by the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland, and secured a high place in the list of passes. Mr. Walsh, who is apprenticed to Mr. Thomas F. Bennett, M.A., LL.B., and in charge of his Hospital office, is third son of Mrs. and the late Mr. Thomas Walsh, law clerk, and a brother of Mr. Thomas Walsh, former secretary of East Limerick Executive of Cumann na nGaedheal.

Adornments in Patrickswell Church.

Through the munificence of Mr. Patrick Hurley, Kiltullane, who some years ago returned to his native district from the United States, where, through hard work Clouncagh when called upon their attestation. Those who were present at the Hall on the 10th Supt. Mulcahy read the form of which had since reported to the five Garda Stations and attested that aderry and Clouncagh men had reached to practically the full hundred mark.

Soldiers in Real Sense.

The District Leader said that the members of the A. Group were now in every real sense of the word were entitled to the respect of the civilian population, and the co-operation of the civilian population in every respect. An Taoiseach at Monaghan on the 10th said, told the people that an army equipped with rifles were in dread of any invading forces. Their modern equipment of tanks and aeroplanes. This statement of the Taoiseach was very timely, for our critics were never done ask could we do in the face of an invasion. The District Leader said he had had heard the last of that and of other kind of subversive criticism.

A Collection.

It was decided to hold a collection in Knockaderry and Clouncagh on 8th December, and it was decided to place any orders for printing in connection with same with the "District Leader." It is the hope of the groups that arrangements can be made for a full local parade of the F. G. M. in Knockaderry on the same day. All the services in their respect will turn out with equipment.

Red Cross.

The attendance at the local classes is holding well. The young men attached to the class hardly attend a lecture, but it is strange that the men do not attend. An appeal to members of the B. Group to meet with a very good response. The organisation on a new basis is shortly expected and in the future the local station hopes to have many of the requisites needed for aid treatment.

and honest persistent effort, he has made a considerable fortune, the little church of Patrickswell, half a mile from historic and nationally famous Lough Gur, donated two beautiful objects, artistic decoration and the other of great utility. The first is a stained-glass window with figures and rich colouring. The gift to the church is a full equipment of Calor gas. Both the people of the parish are appreciative of these additions to the church and are deeply grateful to Mr. Patrick Hurley for his generosity.
