

PRICES.

price of beef and mutton cannot be considered is enough. However, the report states that nobody than a penny a lb. over operation on the 26th Prime cuts then were not above 1s. at all events, but the price has jumped which does not appear to be the case and sheep prices. Anyhow they have their remedy by arguing by appeal to the Commission. Victuallers are really charging on a card hung in their shops.

ACCOUNTANTS.

persons appointed by the Industry and Commerce to auditors under the Friendly Societies and Provident Societies—Richard A. O'Neill, O'Connell, P. Whelan, The Crescents, Thomas Herbert Williams Co.), O'Connell Street. All well-known chartered accountants—men of ability who take an interest in the public life and welfare. The first of which they belong was not in Limerick forty years ago at the present time. Their memory serves, no resident auditor, with the result that local auditing was done in 1875.

Tipperary by a decimal of one point three. The collection generally throughout the country, while showing an improvement compared with twelve months ago, is far from satisfactory. It would not be pleasing to any group of industrialists to have to face their shareholders with half the money due by customers outstanding, yet it is the position of the majority of the County Councils. At the moment, out of a total warrant of £3,863,302 only £1,899,233 was collected, and it would be futile to anticipate that it will have found its way into the coffers of the Councils at this side of what remains of the financial period. We are glad anyway to know that our own county has displayed such a fine public spirit in the exercise of a cardinal duty—none could be higher than to enable the responsible authority to provide for the upkeep of the social services, especially those having to do with the care and comfort of the sick poor and infirm.

DIED SUDDENLY.

During the call over of the names of absent jurors at Limerick Circuit Court to-day, the County Registrar called the name of Patrick O'Kelly, Tankardstown, Kilmallock.

Guard Kennedy, who served the summons, said: "This man died suddenly yesterday evening, my lord."
