

In questions of this nature be give and take—one must concede ground. But the member is that compromise to extremes.

ICERED.

ned are to be congratulated py termination of, the ne-he representatives of both s than the meeting that ratifindings. Any organisation e the Union of Distributive not make many mistakes to endanger the position of
i. Their sheet anchor is pru-commonsense, and where operate there is little fear of methods which have all too een employed. The Drapery the U.D.W. has in this round rous concessions.

'S HOSPITAL.

s Hospital, as was stated in a short time ago, has been by the General Nursing a centre for the complete nurses. At yesterday's half-ing of the Council the state-officially promulgated, and eived in the city with pleas-two voluntary hospitals now is duty, which is a compli-ciency and skill.

1-year old Eton boy is one of st painters ever to exhibit at Academy. He submitted two id both have been accepted.

the same time is vastly preferable to doling out money without giving any return whatsoever. Therefore, this attempt will be welcomed. It is neither fantastic nor far-fetched, but an earnest effort to meet an intelerable situation.
Mr. Ryan, it may be taken, was impelled by no other motive than to serve the interests of the county, and should his scheme prove acceptable to the Minister, it may be hoped it will be adopted by the other counties. As stated, it has everything to commend it ; it is based on sound lines and has the merit of being conceived to assist those farmers without the means to do their duty to the country in a period of grave emergency. That in itself is something to be remembered, although there are people whose complacent way of looking out on the tragedy of Europe is such as to give the impression that we in this country have no duty to the war-torn nations.

DEATH.

O'LEARY—On April 29, 1940, at her residence, 7 Glenview Terrace, Far-ranshone, Limerick, Mrs. Bridget O'Leary (late of Nicholas Street, Limerick)—R.I.P. Remains were removed to St. Munchin's Church last evening. Funeral to-morrow (Wednesday), at 3 p.m. to Mt. St. Laurence Cemetery.