HOSPITAL ECHOES

(From Our Correspondent).

Late Mrs. Riordan.

The death occurred recently at her residence, Ballycahill, of Mrs. Riordan, wife of Mr. John Riordan, and mother of Rev. Fr. W. Riordan, who is ministering in England. Deceased lady had been in indifferent health for some time and her death was not unexpected. Belonging to a highly respected family, she was a splendid example of Irish countrywoman. Mild and gentle in manner, with the courage, virtues and industrious habits of her class, she earned the goodwill and respect of all who knew her for her upright and irreproachable character. To those who knew her intimately she was unfailingly kind and hospitable, and won their affection and regard by her sweetness of manner and amiable disposition. Her death though at a fairly advanced age came as a great shock to her sorrowing husband and family, R.I.P. Her remains were removed to the parish church where Requiem Office and High Mass were offered for her soul on the following day. The interment took place in the adjoining cemetery immediately after, the attendance at the graveside being extremely large and representative, testifying to the great popularity in which the deceased lady was held, and to the widespread sympathy extended to her relatives.

September Fair.

The annual September cattle, sheep and pig fair was held on Monday last, and, as was expected, was detrimentally affected by war conditions. It was what live-stock owners call a "poor" fair. There was a considerable number of live stock on offer. Prices were good for fat cows, but poor for all other kinds, while there was scarcely any demand for calves.

Knockainey Greets Its Hero.

The wraiths of the fairy host of Aine, and the ghosts of the long-dead Fenian warriors must have looked down approvingly from their fairy palaces and sepulchral mounds on the top of the historic hill at the scene that was enacted in Knockainey and its environs on last Monday night week when the inhabi-

The death occurred on the 7th inst., at her residence Rathkeale, of Mrs. Bridget of the late Patrick Tobin. Catholic, she was a kind and able lady with many admirers that caused her to be held in esteem by those who knew her. Her remains were removed to the parish church on Sunday evening and interment took place in the cemetery, Rathkeale, on Monday. On occasions there were several funerals. Rathkeale L.S.F. Manoeuvres.

The Rathkeale L.S.F. had an experience of field manoeuvres when in response to a message there was a general turnout of the A and B and Red Cross units. In part in hostilities planned for the invasion and defence of the area.

Warlike Operations.

Operations commenced with the blocking of roads and bridges and other preliminary measures. Red Cross ambulances, stretcher bearers and first aid were with both units.
