DROMCOLLOGHER GOSSIP

(From Our Correspondent).

Hurling Semi-Final.

After a most encouraging start, the local team unexpectedly failed against Ardagh at Rathkeale on Sunday last in the semi-final of the West Limerick Championship. Nearing the close of the first half the game seemed well in hand, but a great rally by Ardagh narrowed the gap, and at the conclusion they were well in front.

Need Not be Discouraged.

The local players need in no way be discouraged, and with a first-class minor side to fall back upon the future of hurling in the locality looks quite safe.

Local Security.

On Sunday last a fine muster of the local section of the Local Security Force travelled to Newcastle West to take part in the parade of the West Limerick division. Everything passed off in faultless fashion and everyone concerned should feel quite proud of themselves.

Recent Death.

His numerous friends in the locality deeply regret the death, at an early age, of Mr. John Sheahan, Pike Street, Dromcollogher. In failing health for some time past, the deceased won the affection and esteem of all classes, who deeply regret his passing at such an early age. The funeral, which took place from Dromcollogher to Deligu, was of exceptionally large dimensions.

Another Death.

After a prolonged illness the death took place at Kells, Dromcollogher, of Mrs. James McAuliffe. A member of a well known and highly esteemed local family, the death is deeply regretted and the funeral, which took place to the local cemetery, was of exceptionally large dimensions.

The All-Ireland.

The hopes of every Gael in the district will centre on Castle Park on Sunday next, when the County team struggle for All-Ireland honours. Though the strength of the opposition is well known, a quiet feeling of confidence prevails.

GLIN ITE

(From Our Correspondent)

Recent Death.

The death of Mr. Michael Excise and Customs officer, regretted in Glin, where he was popularly known for many years, was brother of the late Michael Way, Hotel, and last clerk at the National Schools. He was survived by Mr. K. Casey and Mr. Patrick Hotel, and Mrs. G. Grant, all of whom, and to his family sympathy is offered.

Another Death.

The recent death of Mr. J. Derry, Listowel, a native of Glin, occurred recently, has occasioned much regret. He was uncle of Mr. Con Mullane, merchant, and sympathy is offered to his family and relatives.

Security Force.

On Sunday after last the Local Security Force travelled to Newcastle West to join other West Limerick units in a big parade in that town. A big number of young men and their smart and well-trained appearance was favourably commented upon by many.

Sacred Picture.

On Sunday night the sacred picture of the Manger to the Nativity was shown at St. Joseph's Hall, Glin, to a full house. The proceeds of the sale were in aid of the local school.

Road Repairs.

A Limerick County Council engineer is at present working on the road through the town, which has a need of repairs for some time past.

Congratulations.
 Mr. Thomas Mead, son of Mr. Michael Mead and Mrs. Mead, Killeaney, Glin, is warmly congratulated by his numerous relatives and friends in Glin on his recent marriage. He was a teacher at St. Joseph's School for some time.

On a Visit.

Mr. T. Crowley, T.D., Ballinacorney, is at present visiting his aunt, Mrs. Culhane, draper, Glin.

Scarcity of Water.

Water in the district town is extremely scarce at the present time and farmers have to cart water from rivers and wells.
