

ey-General to prose-which a young fellow charged with, as al-itary service in Engided for some time. It day, and the little acked. The atmos-
and feeling ran high inst the action of the

IGES.
ho had motored from tion under a police
the prosecution view, by a noise from beupter was promptly
y into the roadway.
ceedings were connough, and then the om London, in great
ack. lively and st'ngfollowed. Counsel appeared for the pro-urt, the Chairman of nt Magistrate, looked ver uttered a syllable.
discretion the better
or least said soonest

low, after twenty-two ll clearly draw a pic-drama enacted in the
at Newpallas—head-
o and three year-olds.
it Nationalist Parlia-
t the seasoned lawyer, tter of the duel. Tom to his political prin-
for them fearlessly, stituents well and un-
his encounter led to preferment—one never immensely improve the standard of the public health of the masses of the population. We may not have reached Utopia, but we unquestionably have made remarkable headway in every direction in the field of social activity.

With the motion from Dublin North-West Branch, reaffirming the country's neutrality in the war, there will be general approval; but when Conference invites, as it will be asked, that Irishmen should refrain from taking sides—in other words, expressing their views on the struggle—there will not be similar unanimity. Every citizen is entitled to have his or her private opinion on the justice or injustice of the aims of the belligerents. The Emergency Powers Act does not go so far as to put a gag in everybody's mouth. The forthcoming Labour Conference may be assured that it will not prevent any citizen of this free democratic country expressing on which side his sympathies lie. It will be time enough when Labour is entrusted with the office of Government to enforce its decrees.

---

DEATH.

SHEEHAN—April 3, 1940, at 14 Crescent Avenue, Limerick, John Sheehan, late of 34 Thomas Street, Limerick.—R.I.P.
Remains will be removed to St.
Michael's Church this (Thursday) evening at 9 o'clock. Funeral tomorrow (Friday), at 3 p.m. to Mount St. Laurence Cemetery.