

Irish Lady Novelist Dead

---

The death has taken place of Miss Maave O'Callaghan, novelist and playwright of Torquay Rd., Foxrock. Miss O'Callaghan, who had only reached her thirtieth year, began writing at an early age. Her best-known works include two plays, "Wind from the West" and "The Patriot," which were produced at the Abbey Theatre, and a novel "Hungarian Rhapsody," written in the name of Sheila Fitzgerald. She was a daughter of Dr J and Mrs O'Callaghan, Foxrock, Dublin, and she was educated in Limerick and at Sheffield University.