

Death of R A Latchford

Mr R A Latchford, Rathmines, Dublin, one of the first linotype operators in Ireland, has died.

A native of Newcastle West, Co Limerick, he was connected for some time with the works management of Messrs Dollards, Dublin. He held the honours certificate in typography of the City and Guilds of London Institute, and for several years taught linotype machine working in Dublin Technical Schools.