

Well-Known Solicitor Dead

Passing of Mr. Robert Cussen.

The death took place at his residence, Newcastle West, on Sunday after a brief illness of Mr Robert Cussen, solicitor and coroner for West Limerick. The deceased gentleman, who was in practice for about 50 years, was Coroner for West Limerick for the past 30 years.

In legal circles, as well as by the general public, he was held in the highest esteem as an able lawyer and a man of integrity and character. In sporting circles he was well known as one of the founders of the now famous Clonanna Coursing meetings, and with the late Mr Phil O'Sullivan, County Solicitor, and others, he helped to make its fame nation wide. He was also a very extensive farmer and was a kindly and considerate employer. He took a deep interest in the Irish language movement. During his long life he performed many a kindly and charitable act for others in need.
