

despite all that medical skill could do coupled with the unremitting attention of the members of her family, she breathed forth her immortal soul to its Creator on the above date. The deceased lady was relict of the late Mr. Daniel Reddan, and the news of her demise was received not alone in the district but in other parts of Clare, as well as Limerick, with genuine sorrow.

The late Mrs. Reddan, who attained a fine old age, was, in truth, the essence of all that was good and holy and her exemplary life had its reward in a most peaceful and edifying death. She had the consoling ministrations of Holy Church in her last moments, and her death, therefore, is keenly regretted, not alone by the members of her family, but by a large circle of relatives and friends who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was one of the oldest inhabitants of the "Bridge," and was a member of a highly respectable family. Of a kindly and genial disposition, she endeared herself to everyone in the district, where her death has been looked upon as the snapping of another link with the past. In her own domestic circle she proved herself a most affectionate and kind mother and her loss will be sorely missed by the members of her family. She was mother of Mr. Dan Reddan, the esteemed and highly respected President of the Limerick Branch of the Distributive Workers' Union, to whom the sympathy of all sections of the community is extended.

After the celebration of Requiem High Mass the funeral took place on Sunday last at one o'clock (old time) from the Parish Church to the family burial ground, Ballysheen. The cortege that followed the remains was of immense proportions despite the inclemency of the weather, mourners coming from far and near to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased and members of her family. Some beautiful wreaths and Mass cards were laid on the grave, which furnished eloquent testimony to the affection in which the late Mrs. Reddan was held.
