DISPUTE SETTLED

AFTER THIRTEEN WEEKS

As a result of a conference called by the Minister for Industry and Commerce (writes our Ennis correspondent) a dispute which lasted 13 weeks at the Sixmilebridge Woollen Mills has been settled. The settlement is based on the national scale of wages applicable to the woollen industry. Workers entitled to a 10/- or over increase per week will get half this amount now and the balance in six months time. These mills, as well as the Galway Woollen Mills, are owned by Messrs. James O'Flynn and Sons, Sixmilebridge.

ABBAYFEALE C.Y.M.S. WHIST DRIVE

The Abbeyfeale C.Y.M.S. whist drive at St. Ita's Hall, on Sunday night, was well attended, and the prizes distributed by Dr. Ed. Harnett, who superintended, were given as follows:—Lady's first prize to Miss Nora M. McCarthy, and the second to Mr. J. Lane (acting as a lady); Gent's first prize to Private McConkey, and second to Mr. D. Ward, N.T.

COTTAGE TENANTS SUING HEALTH BOARD

Three tenants of labourers cottages are taking legal proceedings against the Clare Health Board for alleged failure to keep their cottages in a proper state of repair. When Mr. Brady inquired why the repairs had not been done, the secretary replied that it was impossible to get contractors.

...that there would have been a serious reduction in the city's milk supply were it not for the fact that some of the dairy farmers had a small reserve of petrol on hands.

AUGUSTINIAN CHURCH

THE OLD AND THE NEW

(To The Editor, "Limerick Leader").

Dear Mr. Editor—In reply to "Citizen's" letter, which appeared in your issue of February 24th, I wish to state that already several photographs of the interior and exterior of the old Augustinian Church have been taken, and can be procured at the Priory, O'Connell Street. I have pleasure in enclosing some copies for "Citizen," which you will hand him, should he call at your office.

The holy water fonts referred to in "Citizen's" letter served in Creagh Lane, and were taken from there to the present old church, where they have now given service for 118 years. They will have their rightful place in the new church when complete.

JOHN B. O'DONOHUE, O.S.A.,
Provincial.

TOMB OF A BISHOP

(To The Editor, "Limerick Leader")

Dear Sir—Recently a vault at St. Patrick's Churchyard has given way and it is in a dangerous condition now, as the arch may tumble in any day. This vault is only a few yards from the tomb of Bishop Young, which also looks a bit shaky. Can anything be done to secure Dr. Young's tomb before it is too late? I trust the County Council will have Dr. Young's tomb taken down before it falls in
