KILMALLOCK NOTES

(From Our Correspondent).

Turf Cutting.

Winning the all-important fuel is now the great work in hands at the Jamestown and Ardpatrik bogs and with such fine weather offering there ought to be a very large supply available at the end of the season. Turf of the best quality, both black and brown, is being cut and the toil seems to be a pleasure for those engaged, if we are to take the willingness with which they use their slanes as an indication of their industry.

Death of Mrs. Bourke.

Widespread regret is evidenced at the death of the late Mrs. Bourke which took place at her residence, Sarsfield Street, Kilmallock, on the 22nd ult. She died in the fullness of years after a life which had been well spent and in which a deep religious fervour took no small part. Her character was moulded on the highest conceptions of her duty to God and her neighbours and she was never known to approach any subject but from viewpoint of charity, being always think we are a great body to be able to keep down the rates. Only for the fairs being held up the rates would be down to 1/6.

The Town Clerk said the estimated revenue from tolls was down from £130 last year to £60 this year.

On the proposition of Mr. McAuliffe, seconded by Mr. Clifford, the rate of 1/8 in the £ was unanimously adopted.

Mr. McAuliffe proposed that representations be made to the Department of Agriculture with a view to having a fair held in the town as early as possible in June and the proposition was adopted.

ready to recognise only the good and to condone and pass over any faults that may be apparent in other people. Unremitting industry was another strong feature in her life and her scrupulously fair dealing with all won for her a host of friends. Her funeral to Clonbeg, Glen of Aherlow, on May 23rd was extremely large and representative and a fitting tribute to one who was beloved by all who knew her. R.I.P.

Priest Home on Holiday.

Rev. Father James Ryan, of Ballyshonakin, Effin, is home on a holiday from England and is, we are glad to say, looking hale and hearty, Father Ryan is a member of a very popular family in the district and a brother to the well-known South Limerick hurlers, John and Paddy Ryan, and we might add here that Father Ryan was himself an outstanding wielder of the caman prior to his reception into the priesthood.

Thunderstorm.

In the afternoon of last Sunday a thunderstorm of considerable violence broke over East Limerick and extended towards Charleville and around by Kilfinane about 5 o'clock. A cloud of inky blackness gathered over the district north east of Kilmallock and the forked lightning could be seen cutting through it. There was one extraordinary flash which took the form of an arch or rainbow shape and came before an exceptionally heavy peal of thunder.
