BISHOP OF KILMORE.

In the course of an encouraging message Most Rev. Dr. Lyons, Bishop of Kilmore, stated:

"I pray God to preside over the deliberations of the Supreme Council and to bestow upon it the divine blessing and the divine guidance. The Order is celebrating its Silver Jubilee this year. If the Order decides to have any formal celebration on this auspicious occasion, you may count on me for any presence at any authorised function to mark my appreciation of what the Order has done for the interests of God's Church during the past twenty-five years."

After the proceedings, which lasted three days, the Supreme Knight held a reception and dance at Ely House, which was attended by the delegates to the Supreme Council and by many other members of the Order and their lady friends.

BELFAST'S "TWELFTH"

There were no decorations or processions in Belfast on July 12th and no sound of fife or drum was heard. The shops were closed and thousands of people left the city, demand and it is now learned that a well-known firm has purchased one of his works for reproduction in their annual calendar. Hearty congratulations will be extended to Mr. Doran on his merited success.

ANCIENT CHARTERS.

A Limerickman, resident in England for many years, writes enquiring if any of the ancient charters of the city are still extant. We are glad to be in a position to say that some, though not all, of the original charters are available. They are now housed in the Municipal Museum, where they are on view in glass cases. The first charter was granted by King Richard in 1197, under which authority was given to elect a Mayor and bailiffs. Other monarchs to bestow special privileges on the city were John, Edward I, Henry IV, Henry V, Henry VI, Edward VI, Elizabeth, James I and Cromwell. The Sword of State presented by Elizabeth in 1582 may also be seen in the Museum, together with the four maces, which are in existence for over two hundred years. Up to recent years the city had an official sword bearer.

PLEA ACCEPTED

Accepting an old age pensioner's plea that £600 lodged in a bank in her name really belonged to her daughter, who had brought home her savings from America, Mr. Justice Geoghegan, at Leitrim High Court, affirmed the dismissal of an action brought by the Minister for Finance to recover £92 12s., alleged to have been obtained by the pensioner Mrs. Elizabeth Storey, Drumbrick, Carrigallen, Co. Leitrim—on false representations.
