Fynnon Salt

stops Lumbago
"when all else fails"

Wash away your rheumatic acids and your rheumatics will follow in their wake, be they lumbago, sciatica, neuritis, or joint and muscular stiffness and pain.

Mr. P. W. says: "Having had pain in the small of my back for the last six months I tried nearly everything for a cure—but failed. I had only to step from the pavement to the road a bit rashly when a stabbing pain would run up my back. Then I read of Fynnon. I am now on my third tin and must say to the discomforts of travelling, and visit small towns such as this, as a proof of his great love for the drama and his desire to benefit the theatrical art throughout the country. Recently for an all too brief stay of four nights we had this incomparable actor again and his splendid company, including his fifteen-year-old son, whose performances give much promise of a brilliant career. Miss Cordie Carmichael was another outstanding addition to the troupe. The plays selected for the tour were "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls," "Love From a Stranger," "Red," and, by special request of many of our admirers, "Othello." On the concluding night of his visit Mr. McMaster expressed his delight at the great pleasure it gave him to visit Hospital once more, where he always found such an intelligent and appreciative audience. He hoped, he said, to pay a return visit some time next summer.

Late Mrs. Fogarty, Herbertstown.
The death took place suddenly at her residence, RathJordan, Herbertstown, of Mrs. M. Fogarty, widow of the late Mr. Malachy Fogarty, and mother of Messrs. Malachy Joseph and Michael Fogarty, and of Mrs. Agnes Murphy, Bally. A lady of rare charm of manner, genial temperament, and warm-hearted nature, she was extremely popular with all who knew her, while to those who were intimately associated with her she was a sincere and loyal friend. Her death, at a not very advanced age, came as a great shock to her family and relatives, with whom the greatest sympathy is felt on their sad loss. Her remains were removed to the Church of the Sacred Heart, Herbertstown, accompanied by a large cortege of sympathisers. The funeral took place after Requiem Office and High Mass next day to Hospital.

Sunday's game was a long, strenuous affair of interest and excitement maintained for the sixty-minute hour. Play was inclined to be robust than stylish but numerous outstanding passes and thrills were the order of the day. Facing a veritable gauntlet in the opening half, Rathkeale, by the measure of the game, whose three-point lead at half-time left the issue very much in doubt. The position remained unchanged for fifteen minutes in the second half but Rathkeale made a determined drive and succeeded in taking the lead. They successfully defended their lead of a great game.

THE PLAY.

Despite the handicap of a wind blowing right against them, Rathkeale were early on the offensive and the attack was the way but a wide Croon moved off from the left and Carroll forced a 70-yard well-contested by Roche. Keane came to the rescue with long clearances.

EXCITING EXCHANGE.

Larkin and Ealey were under pressure after some exchanges when the attack was again under fire. To the attack, Croon kept pace all the way, the Martin Butler opened it with a point for the home side. Rathkeale replied with a point and Keane was in to miss the objective. Keane followed up the push and finished off a clever move and send over the bar for an 11-0 for the Maigneiders. Croon peeped during the half in field exchanges that led to delivery and Larkin sent Keane forwards on the left in spite of stubborn resistance. The Cregan brothers and Cowhey succeeded in forcing Croon defence to shoot and gave Rathkeale the lead. The advantage was short-lived and again rallied to the offside from a scramble in the danger zone. Simcox led the lead for the champions.

UNBEATABLE SIDE.

Rathkeale retaliated with a point and things were dangerous for Croon. The Cregan brothers and Butler to the rescue. A penal kick sent Larkin to return the play. Keane and excitement ran high. Keane crashed an unbeatable goal to the Croon not to bring it to a level. The spectators now on their toes and
