

Next Week—The Elections—End the Split.

A.A. Grounds—The Feis Final.

As usual, I cannot put it too strongly the request to every Gael to attend the Feis Hurling Final at the grounds on next Sunday. Their attendance for such a game helps the language and games. Some great men have declared they would prefer to see Ireland not so much than without a language—Gan tanga gan tair. We regret much that the fixture has gone so late and only hope that the clerk of the weather will act more favourably than on the last two Sundays. That deluge at the county hurling final on the 9th inst was a painful experience.

The clash between the Cork and Tipperary hurlers is a decided attraction as the defeat of the All-Ireland Champions by the Premier county hurlers on the same pitch on the 26th ult. was a result not expected by the closest students of our premier game.

Cork or Tipperary.

I learn from both camps that the game on next Sunday is going to be a real decider. The "Leesiders" hold that they were most unexpectedly put off their game and they are coming back to reverse the former verdict, while our Tipperary neighbours will not hear of any reverse. They stand by the feeling that they are as good men as they were last month. It is going to be a great test, so come on, Gaels, and enjoy one of the most promising clashes that we have had for years past between those two leading counties. The game, by the way, will start at 3 o'clock.

Lists of Players.

Cork—J. Buttimer, W. Murphy, B. Hornhill, A. Lotty, W. Campbell, Cottrell, D. J. Buckley, J. Barrett, J. Lynch, C. Ring, C. Buckley, Young, J. Quirke, T. O'Sullivan, Brennan.

Tipperary—J. Maher, D. Gorman, Cornally, P. Dwyer, J. Ryan, J. Maher, T. Doyle, W. O'Donnell, N. London, P. Flanagan, D. Doorley, Ryan, J. Ryan, T. Treacy, T. Kennedy.

Ahane v. Treaty.

All tastes will be catered for on Sunday, when Ahane and Treaty clash in the football junior final, under the whistle of L. Brawn. It promises to be a fine exhibition of the code. During my time I never saw such headway made in this game by a group of hurlers, aided by a couple of minor footballers, in their area in a half dozen years, as those Ahane lads. They play finished football now, but it was amusing to see in the early years such finished caman wielders

OBITUARY

— 00 —

DR. MAURICE CONNERY, KILFINANE.

Deep and widespread regret has been occasioned throughout the County of Limerick, but especially at Kilfinane, by the death of Dr. Maurice Connery, which occurred at his residence, Spring Lodge, on last Saturday morning. Dr. Connery, who was an extensive and progressive farmer, was one of the oldest practitioners in the county, having graduated with the degrees of M.D. and M.Ch. on the 22nd October, 1884, at the Royal University of Ireland. On the 27th of May, 1885, the degree of M.A.O. was conferred on him also at the Royal University of Ireland. After spending a short term in England, Dr. Connery returned to his native Kilfinane, where he practised up to a short time before his death. He was formerly a member of the Limerick County Council, a Justice of the Peace and for a number of years was Chairman of the Kilfinane Fianna Fail Cumann.

The remains were removed to St. Andrew's Church on Sunday evening, when there was an extremely large concourse of the general public present to pay a fitting tribute of respect to his memory, the funeral on the following day to Darragh Cemetery being one of the largest seen in the district for many years.

The officiating clergy at the graveside were—Rev. Father Connery, O.F.M. (nephew of deceased); Rev. Father Malachy McQuillinan, O.F.M., Limerick; Rev. Father Ephraim O'Shea, O.F.M., do.; and Rev. Father Tynan, C.C., Kilfinane, R.I.P.

The chief mourners were—Mr. Daniel Connery (brother); Rev. Father Connery, O.F.M.; Mr. Jack Connery, Kilmurry; Mr. James Connery, Spring Lodge (nephews); Miss Mai Connery, Kilmurry (niece).
