

more the accident and did not see any car; he could not explain why he did not see the car.

Surgeon J. F. O'Connor gave evidence of the injuries sustained by both plaintiffs.

For the defence,

THE DEFENCE.

Miss Christine Elizabeth O'Rourke said that on the date in question she had as passengers in her car Mrs. Waller and Miss O'Neill. It was a very wet evening and visibility was not too good. It was not easy to see to the right hand side as the rain was beating against the window. As she approached the cross-roads she was travelling at about 20 or 25 m.p.h. she could not remember if she sounded the horn. At the time of the collision she was travelling on the centre of the road and more or less to the left hand side. At the cross-roads the first thing she saw was the wheel of Biggane's bicycle coming across her right hand side. She then heard the crash and saw Biggane going over the bonnet of the car. She never saw the second cyclist until after the accident.

Miss Edna O'Neill said that on the occasion in question she was sitting to the left of the driver. The first thing she noticed was the shadow in front of the radiator. The impact had occurred before she saw the shadow. Witness did not know they had reached a cross-roads at the time. The car was travelling at about 20 miles per hour at the time.

JUDGE'S REMARKS.

This concluded the case, and His Lordship said that on the evidence he would have to hold that the defendant did not exercise the care which she should in driving the car on to the cross-roads. She was negligent much more than the men who were the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs, having got to the centre of the road, and having, as one of them did, crossed the down of the road were entitled to continue their journey straight on the Granagh road and to expect that traffic coming from Newcastle West would avoid them. He would give a decree to Biggane for £106 12s, and O'Gorman for £5 15s, with costs and expenses in each case.

LIMERICK MAN'S DETAH IN WATERFORD

A prominent and deservedly popular figure passed away in Waterford recently in the person of Mr. Jeremiah Moynihan, Preventive Officer of Customs. The deceased was a member of a talented and highly respected Limerick family. His brother, Mr. S. J. Moynihan, holds the important position of County Commissioner for Waterford and the adjoining County of Kilkenny. Another brother, Mr. John Joe Moynihan, is Investigation Surveyor at Belurbet, Co. Cavan. Two of his sisters still reside in Limerick—Mrs. Fenton, Erville, Farranshone, and Mrs. Hayes, 3 Clare View Villas, Farranshone.

The late Mr. Moynihan—who is survived by his widow, three daughters and a son—joined the Customs service in Cobh in 1919 and was subsequently stationed in Cork until 1926, when he was transferred on promotion to Waterford, where in the ensuing fifteen years he established for himself a host of lasting friendships. An exceedingly well-read man, he was a fine conversationalist and could regale his friends for hours on end with sparkling story and racy anecdote. He had a great charm of manner and this and his many other excellent qualities had won him the warm affection and appreciation of a very large circle of acquaintances. He discharged his manifold and onerous duties as a Preventive Officer in a manner which earned for him the appreciation of his superiors, the esteem of his colleagues and the respect of all those with whom he officially came in contact. His death has caused a big void in the social and general life of Waterford and the esteem and popularity he enjoyed in that city and district were strikingly shown by the huge numbers attending the removal of the remains and the many Waterford people who travelled all the way to Limerick to attend the interment in Mount St. Lawrence Cemetery.
