DISQUALIFIED!

FAILURE TO PAY RATES

It is understood that seven members of the Limerick County Council have become disqualified because of their failure, in compliance with recent legislation, to have their rate moiety paid on or before 31st March last.

One member of the Limerick Corporation has become disqualified for a similar reason.

It is competent for public bodies to elect by co-option disqualified members provided they have discharged their rates obligation.

In connection with the vacancy on the City Council caused by the regretted death of Ald. J. McInerney, it is likely that the necessary preliminary steps will be taken at to-night's meeting of the Corporation to have a successor appointed. The names of the following three candidates are mentioned as candidates—Mr. John Carew, Mr. James McQuane and Mr. P. Whelan.

SAVED HER PLAYMATE'S LIFE

Miss Mary Bourke, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. Patrick Bourke, Market Square, Kilrush, was presented with a certificate of bravery at Kilrush by District Justice Gleeson for going to the rescue of her playmate, a girl aged 10, who got into difficulties when bathing at Cappa last summer.

TILLAGE IN CLARE

This year more land has been tilled in Clare than was ever done within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Winter wheat has proved to be a most successful crop in all parts of the county. With favourable weather there should be an abundant harvest.

were adjourned. The matter with Mr. Geary, plaintiff's solicitor.

The case was adjourned for a month.

ESTEEMED FIGURE

DEATH OF MR. THOMAS DONOVAN

With very deep and sincere regret we chronicle the demise of Mr. Thomas Donovan, merchant tailor, O'Connell Street, Limerick, which took place this morning after a prolonged illness.

The late Mr. Donovan was held in very high esteem and respect by all classes of the community. A sartorial craftsman of the highest order, he had won in open competition coveted diplomas in recognition of his skill as a cutter. He had by his own ability, energy and driving force built up a big business and his clientele included many of the most distinguished people of the city and county. In private life the deceased was a host in himself. Possessing a fund of humour, apart from other endearing traits of character, his companionship was much sought after. A splendid musician, he was one of the leading members of the orchestra of the old Limerick Operatic Society, and his piccolo and concert flute solo were always a very pleasing feature at recitals. He was, too, a vocalist of distinction and for many years he was attached to the choir of the Redemptorist Church. A lover of sport in general, he took a special interest in rowing and Rugby football.

Deep and heartfelt sympathy will be extended to the widow and family in their irreparable loss.
