

THE LYRIC

Depicting a merry mix-up of romantic escapades, Universal's "Double Date," a gay modern comedy, opens at the Lyric on Monday next. Edmund Lowe, Una Merkel, Peggy Moran and Rand Brooks head the featured cast of comedy players, which include Tommy Kelly, Eddy Waller and others. The supporting feature, "The Electric Man," stars Lon Chaney, Jr., in a thrilling story, the cast of which includes Lionel Atwill, Anne Nagel and Frank Albertson.

On Thursday comes "Sealed Lips," an exciting crime drama with a cast that bills William Gargan, June Clyde, John Litel and Anne Nagel in prominent roles. The supporting feature, "Moonlight in Hawaii," is a grand musical comedy with a scintillating list of players—Jane Frazee, Leon Errol, the Merry Macs, Johnny Downes and Mischa Auer.

STAGE SHOW

AT LIMERICK SAVOY

Three headline stars will appear in the stage show to commence at the Savoy, Limerick, on Monday next. They are headed by Ralph Silvester, tenor, who is ably assisted by his brother, Chris, playing the accordion. In addition to accompanying his brother, Chris also presents his own rousing interlude, displaying his amazing dexterity on this popular instrument. Mike Nolan, a peer among comedians, is too well known to Limerick audiences to need any introduction. His inimitable style and abundance of wit will be much in evidence in a new act abounding in hilarious moments. Another popular artiste among the galaxy is Maureen Patter, dancing and singing star, who achieved international fame with Jack Payne and his orchestra during their pre-war European tour. Maureen introduces a score of today's most popular melodies into the programme, and enhances her entire contribution with a sparkling dance novelty. Other performers include Eddie Burns, Limerick's composer-vocalist, who will include a number of his newest compositions. He will also play and sing a number he has specially written for this engagement, "God Watches Over Old Erin," a piece that will have a special appeal to the relatives of those who have gone to England. The show, "Green, White and Gold," is aptly brought to a close with the first theatrical appearance of the L.D.F. brass band, who have had intensive training under the Army School of Music. On Friday night next, the members of the L.D.F. will be entertained at a carnival L.D.F. night at the Savoy, through the courtesy of an anonymous donor.

Numerous telegrams, letters and messages of sympathy were received from all parts.

MR. DENIS GARRY, CASTLECONNELL.

Deep and widespread sympathy was strongly in evidence in the Castleconnell area and especially in the railway centres from Nenagh to Limerick, when it was learned that Mr. Denis Garry had passed away. The deceased worked in the parcels department of the G.S.R. at Nenagh, Pallas and Limerick, and it was certainly touching to observe so many of the railway officials and workers attending his last obsequies. It was a striking tribute to dear Denny's popularity with the different staffs. He was a good son, a fond brother and a loyal comrade. Death always brings sorrow—separation between the loved ones—and this is always augmented when the deceased is called away in the prime of life. We wish to convey our deep sympathies to his good parent and relatives. May God console them in their hour of bereavement. The representative cortege to the village church and local cemetery showed the great hold Denny had on public esteem, as well as the sympathy tendered to his bereaved relatives.

The clergy present were—Rev. J. Fogarty, P.P.; Rev. T. Daffy, C.C., Castleconnell; Rev. B. McMahon, P.P.; Rev. T. Hogan, C.C., Crusheen.

The chief mourners were—Thos. Garry (father); Tom, John and Michael (brother); Mrs. Conway and Polly (sisters); Miss Conroy (aunt); Michael Conroy, Michael Garry, Peter and Stephen Garry (uncles); Mrs. T. Garry, Mrs. J. Garry, Mrs. M. Garry (sisters); David Conway (brother-in-law); David, Thomas, Jas. and William Conway, Thomas and Patrick Garry (nephews); Nora, Bridget and Margaret Conway (nieces).

G.S.R. staff at Limerick was represented by J. Moriarty, station master; E. P. Downey, chief clerk, parcels office; Dan Griffin, Booking office—J. Shanahan, T. Hickey, M. Gorman, M. Healy, J. Ryan, J. O'Leary, M. Keane, J. Gaffney, T. McMahon, O. Burns, P. Burns, etc. Inspector Hyland, P.W.D., Nenagh; P. Dolan, station master, Birdhill, etc.

Wires and letters of sympathy received were too numerous for publication owing to curtailment of space.
