

say.

Mr. Quaid said that the Horse Show Society found that it would not be possible to hold a two-day show this year. The expenses, however, of a one-day show would be almost as great as those of a two-day fixture, and, consequently, the Society would urge the Agricultural Committee to give the full allocation of £240.

Mr. Ryan also spoke in support of Mr. Quaid's appeal.

FULL ALLOCATION.

Mr. McCormack proposed that the full allocation be allowed. The Society were carrying on under very great difficulties and it should be remembered that every penny spent at the Show circulated amongst the people.

Mr. O'Neill seconded and said that the Society was to be congratulated for its enterprise in carrying on the Show.

After a brief discussion, the Chairman declared Mr. McCormack's proposition passed unanimously.

A MEAN FRAUD

A Kiltimagh butcher, named Jordan had a string tied to the goods pan side of the scales on which he weighed meat and to this string was tied a small cloth bag which would hold a 2 oz. weight. Fining him £5 15s. at Claremorris Court, District Justice Guy said it was one of the worst cases of fraud he ever had before him.

NO MOTORING TO POLLING BOOTHS

Hackney motors cannot be used for conveying voters to the polling booths in the coming local elections. This has been decided upon by the Department of Supplies and any owner whose car is used for such a purpose will have his permit withdrawn immediately.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Limerick County Council, at a special meeting convened for Saturday, 18th inst., will appoint a rate collector for Kilmallock No. 4 District and "fill vacancy on the County Board of Health in room of Mr. Michael Ryan, M.C.C."

holding at Rosstemple was due to a local agitation for the division of the lands. More than the quota had been tilled this year.

The Justice fined defendant £2 and allowed 6/- expenses and 2/- costs in each of the cases.

HIGH TRIBUTES

TO LATE MR. JOHN QUILLIGAN

High tributes were paid to the memory of the late Mr. John Quilligan at the meeting of the Limerick Corporation last night, the Mayor (Mr. D. J. O'Malley, solicitor) presiding. The other members present were: Ald. D. Bourke, T.D.; Ald. J. McQuane, Councillors P. J. Donnellan, C. V. O'Malley and Michael Daly.

The Mayor said that as that was their first meeting since the death of Mr. John Quilligan, who was one of their most esteemed officials—probably one of the most esteemed men in Munster—he thought it was only fitting that the Council should mark the sense of his loss. Anything he (Mayor) might say of the late Mr. Jack Quilligan would be superfluous having regard to what had already been said of him by public bodies and the Press. He would only add that a better and truer Irishman than the deceased it would be hard to find. As an official he was the acme of perfection itself, and as a sportsman he had few equals, if any.

The Mayor then proposed a vote of sympathy with the widow and family and adjourned the meeting as a mark of respect.

Ald. Bourke seconded the vote, and said that the late Mr. Quilligan was an ideal citizen, a man who served the public well in many capacities. His death was a big loss not only to his widow and family, but to the citizens as a whole.

The Manager (Mr. J. J. Berkery) said that he felt Mr. Quilligan's death very much. He was a great official and a man who laboured for the upliftment and advancement of the city.

The vote was then passed in silence and the meeting adjourned.
