een them they had been paying rent for 32 years.

Are you married? asked the
mmissioner.

No, said the applicant.

Why did you leave the cottage?
swopped it for a bit of land.

How much land have you?—
out seven acres.

Is that all?—And a bit of comnage.

When you're a farmer, said the
mmissioner.

I'm entitled to this cottage, said applicant, after paying for it 32 years. We've been paying rly £3 a year for it.

Don't you think, said the Com-
sioner, that you got full value your £3 a year? Is there any er landlord in the Tulla district t would give you a good house an acre of land for £3 a year?

There was no answer, but the rdroom door banged violently as farmer made his exit.
