to-day. They who implemented the Constitution either did not understand, or wilfully tried to override its provisions when they sought, in addition, to usurp the rights of the parent to educate his children as he saw fit. It was not necessary to confiscate the farmer's title in order to halve the annuities. The British Land Purchase Acts respected and safeguarded property rights. There may be differences of opinion on the morality of withholding payment to Britain. There can be but one judgment on the morality of undermining the farmer's title, and that is the adjudgment of it as legalised plunder. Even the very bait itself was spurious, for not one iota of the original purchase price was wiped out. The time for the redemption of the advance was simply extended—an admirable piece of chicanery from a politician's point of view.

FOUND DEAD IN MEADOW

Dan Ryan (33), Lissard, Galbally, Co. Limerick, who was missing from his home for three weeks, and for whom a search was made by Gardai and L.D.F. men, was found dead last Sunday about two miles from his home in a meadow field of Mr. Tim Power, Garryspillane (writes our Ballylanders correspondent).

The corpse was discovered by Masters William and Paddy Quish, Newtown, who were crossing the fields to a football match at Garryspillane. Deceased was seen alive near the place where his body was found about seven days ago, and it is believed that death must have taken place shortly afterwards.

Dr. O'Connor, Kilmallock, held a post-mortem examination, and Dr. Cleary, Coroner, Hospital, conducted the inquest.

The funeral took place from Lissard to Emly Cemetery on Monday.

CHARLEVILLE CINEMA.

Edward G. Robinson, Ida Lupino and John Garfield head the cast of "The Sea Wolf," Warner Bros. screen version of the famous Jack London novel, the attraction for the Pavilion, Charleville, on Sunday, 20th June and Monday. The screen play tells the powerful story of "Wolf" Larsen, most feared and hated captain who ever sailed the seas. Michael Curtiz, master of the action-drama, directed. The supporting feature is "Dressed To Kill," with Lloyd Nolan.

door and witness went to talk her. Witness had the tongs in hand at the time. While they were talking defendant came across the street "like a roaring bull" and accused them of talking about him. He struck witness in the mouth and knocked her down and kicked her, as a result of which she had to be treated by a doctor.

Julia Roche said that Hu accused them of talking about him which they denied. She saw Hu with his hands on Mrs. Hart's throat and he kicked her as witness said. Plaintiff was in a bad way as a consequence.

Guard Mahoney said that Mr. Hart complained to him and showed him a mark under her eye where there was blood.

Christopher Hunt said that witness (Mrs. Roche) owed him fortnight's rent. When he asked Mrs. Roche for the rent plaintiff attacked him with the tongs. In the struggle plaintiff fell to the ground.

Answering Mr. Cussen, he denied that he assaulted the plaintiff in the manner alleged and only acted in self-defence.

The Justice said that there was no doubt defendant assaulted the complainant and he would be fined 5/6, with £1 costs.

Daniel Sammon, South Quay, Newcastle West, was granted an interim transfer of licence, on the application of Mr. M. J. K. Dolan, solr.

Michael Mulcahy, Garryduff, Newcastle West, was summoned for driving a cart without reasonable care.

Guard Treacy said that on 18 March he went to Knockaun Cro where he saw a van and a horse and cart. There were a number of men arguing and he was informed by the driver of the van that Mulcahy had driven his cart into him. There were three men in the cart and they were slightly under the influence of drink. Defendant had no light.

Mr. R. J. Cussen, solicitor for defendant, said that his client had been to town and took some drink. He had been fasting all day.

The Justice imposed a fine of £1 and 2/6 costs.

"She has given him away since said a Guard who prosecuted the woman for not having a dog licensed.

"I don't care what she has done with him," said the Justice. "She can run him in the Grand National if she likes."

"I never saw more animals wandering on the road than I do at present," said the Justice, when several defendants were fined for allowing animals to stray.

Thomas O'Connor, Glenast, Ardagh, summoned Michael Ambrose, Ballylin, Ardagh, for assault.

Complainant, answering Mr. R. Cussen, solr., said that on 31st March while working in his garden, def-
