

McCavitt, B.A., and the cast will include the very best of Limericks' dramatic talent. To ensure a successful first-night production, unusual care has been taken with the selection of the cast, and with the same end in view the date of production has not been definitely decided upon.

THE BAN

Dun Laoghaire Vocational Education Committee decided, by eight votes to one, to "replace married women," who are part-time teachers, by "single ladies," or by men, preferably men, the rule not to operate for a year.

In Eire, comment has been heard of late

Upon each year's decreasing marriage-rate.

Dun Laoghaire's "eight" don't fear a social deadlock;

They proudly place a penalty on wedlock.

The girls in single blessedness who tarry

Are "ladies"—but just "women" when they marry,

And men who do their work may soon, perhaps,

If they get married, get the "sack," poor chaps!

Will "women," ere this rule comes into force,

Retain their jobs if they secure divorce?

Or will the "eight," before the year's conclusion,

Perceive the folly of their ban Malthusian.
