Young Man's Death

While proceeding down a steep hill on his bicycle on the road between Ballingarry and Rathkeale, Jeremiah Hayes (20), of Kilmeedy, collided with a pony and trap coming in the opposite direction, and was thrown to the road. He was removed to Croom Hospital, where he died some hours after admission. Deceased was a helper on a threshing machine, and was a son of Mr P Hayes, postman, Kilmeedy.
