
Co Limerick Centenarian Dead

A County Limerick centenarian—John Horight, of Old Mill, Ardagh, who was born a few years before the famine of "Black '47"—died on Saturday, aged 101. Horight was possessed of all his faculties before he died, and often recalled how he had worked 18 years a day for 1½d. He was carried in his father's arms to the celebration welcoming Smith O'Brien on his return from Van Diemen's Land, and as a young man was a member of every national movement.
