

Tragic Discovery.

Found On The Roadside

Rathkeale Farmer's Death

Found lying in an unconscious condition on the roadside at Awogan, Rathkeale, Michael Enright (49), farmer and widower, of Ballylio, Croagh, died shortly after receiving spiritual aid from Rev T Murphy, P P, Croagh.

He was dead before medical assistance arrived on the scene.

Deceased, it is believed, left Rathkeale on the previous night about 11 pm and fell off his bicycle on his way home.

Dr W J Mulcahy, M O, Rathkeale, subsequently performed a post-mortem and certified that death was due to cerebral haemorrhage. Deceased, it was stated, had not been in good health for some time, and complained of severe headaches.

The deep sympathy felt in the district for the tragic passing of such a highly esteemed and widely respected gentleman was strikingly exemplified at the very large and representative funeral which took place to Nantunan Cemetery.

The officiating clergy were:—Rev T Murphy, P P, Croagh; Very Rev T J Casey, P P, Askeaton; Very Rev Fr O'Connor, O F M Cap; Rev D Rea, O O Askeaton; Rev J Enright, O O Kiffinoy; and Rev J Lyons, Rathkeale.