Aged Farmer's Sad End

John Hayes, an elderly farmer, Askeaton, died at his home last evening from serious injuries received when he was attacked by a bull on his land three days previously. Aged nearly 80 years, and unmarried, the deceased was collecting the cows for milking, when the bull turned on him, inflicting injuries for which he was treated by Dr M Fitzgibbon, Askeaton. It is understood that the bull attacked deceased on two former occasions.
