
Sportsman's Death

The death occurred at his residence, Trinaderry, Ennis, on Friday morning, of Mr Michael McMahon. He was reputed to be the second largest landlord in county Clare. He was father-in-law of Mr E Monahan, solicitor, the Fine Gael candidate in the Clare by-election. A keen follower of hounds and a great lover of horses, he was probably one of the best known horsemen in Munster. During troubled times his house was always a refuge and haven for men on the run, and he was extremely popular with all sections and breeds of the community.
