...city, and in that connection rising athletes complain that they are not being provided with many opportunities of developing their prowess.
While on this subject a word of congratulation is due to the small group responsible for the promotion of games amongst the boys attending the Compulsory Vocational School. This is a step in the right direction, because if boys are not encouraged to play games they are likely to stray into channels not calculated to give them either a moral or civic uplift.
