DEATH OF DR. PHYLLIS McDONNELL

With very deep and sincere regret we chronicle the demise of Dr. Phyllis McDonnell, wife of Dr. L. V. McDonnell, which took place on Saturday morning after a long illness.

The deceased lady, who was a daughter of the late Dr. Laurence Kelly, Merrion Square, Dublin, was held in the highest esteem and regard by a very wide circle of friends and associates. Her death in the prime of life has occasioned profound regret and sorrow, and the sympathy of the citizens is extended to her bereaved husband, children and family circle in their irreparable loss.

The funeral took place to-day from St. Michael's Church, after Solemn Requiem Mass, to Mount St. Lawrence Cemetery. The cortege was of immense proportions, being representative of the professional and commercial classes, not only of the city and county, but of a much wider area.

Butler struck him with an ashplant on the 16th of February. On the following morning he said to witness that he would meet him later and the two plaintiffs assaulted him that night, Patrick Butler striking him with a stone and rendering him unconscious. Witness was seven weeks in hospital and was still receiving medical treatment.

Michael Butler said that on the night of the 17th of February he saw his sons and the other Butlers fighting. Witness separated them. He did not strike anybody.

Garda Tobin said that on the night of the 17th of February Michael Butler and his family arrived at the barracks with a complaint. Subsequently the other Butlers arrived and the parties had an argument.

The Justice said he would accept plaintiffs' story of what had happened.

Patrick Butler was given a decree for £10 and Timothy Butler a decree for £5. The Justice also allowed £4 expenses.

SEVENTY TONS OF TEA

Our Dublin correspondent wires: In connection with a statement published to the effect that a vessel at present discharging at Dublin has on board 20 tons of tea, it is now learned that she has no less than 70 tons of tea in her holds. The vessel has also ten tons of wines.

It was learned, our correspondent adds, that another vessel of 7,000 tons is on her way home from Lisbon with a general cargo.
