

violinist, with a charming selection; Maura Naughton, contralto; Peigi Slattera, club swinging; Gus Graham, accordionist; and Patrick Yelverton, boy soprano. One of the gems of the evening was the repertoire of Miss Josephine Scanlan, who ranks with this city's coming singers; in fact, she is excellent lately.

The brilliant accompanist was Mr. Pat O'Connor, an outstanding artiste in his own right.

DUFFY (Thirteenth Anniversary)—In loving remembrance of Thomas Duffy, E Road, Killeely, Thomondgate, who died on the 1st November, 1932. Sweet Jesus, have mercy on his soul. Masses offered.

We think of him in silence

And oft repeat his name;

But all that's left to answer

Is his picture in a frame.

Daily we look at that picture;

He is smiling and seems to say:

Do not weep, dear daddy and mammy,

We will meet again one day.

bachelor, of Cahermurphy, Kilmihill Co. Clare, revoked.

The plaintiff is Kathleen Hefferan, Letterfrack, Co. Galway, a niece of the deceased, who claims as next-of-kin to have the will dated August 10th, 1939, of her uncle, who died on the 7th April, 1941, condemned on the three usual grounds, and to have letters of administration granted to her.

The defendants are Michael Cleary, a nephew of the deceased, and his wife, of Cahermurphy, Kilmihill, executors of the will, and to whom probate was granted on the 11th September, 1942.

Mr. Owen Keane (by Messrs. Kerin, Hickman and O'Donnell), for the plaintiff, who made the application, also asked for discovery of documents. The deceased, he said, had been a claimant to what was known as the O'Dea millions and had given evidence at the enquiry into the next-of-kin, and the evidence at the enquiry they considered might be useful to them in the trial of the action.

Mr. John Kenny (by Mr. T. F. Twomey), for the defendants, stated that they had not a copy of the evidence at the enquiry.

The Master made an order fixing the trial before a judge and jury, and made no order as to the application for discovery.

A NEW START NEEDED

Herman Kriedemann, leader in pre-Nazi Germany of the strongest political party (the Social Democrats), told 1,800 Germans at Luneburg yesterday that they must remember "we have lost the war not won a revolution." Kriedemann spoke at what Social Democrat leaders said was their first public political assembly in 12 years. Germany, he said, now needed honest democrats to find a new way of life, lest the country go down to barbarism. Bleeding from a million wounds, there was no chance but a new start. "We won't ease our fate if we play the part of boot-lickers," said Kriedemann. "We must become self-reliant again. It depends on us whether we can reconquer the world's respect."
