The Late Canon M Shelley

Irish and Anglo-Irish Catholics have suffered a severe loss by the recent death of Very Rev Canon Michael Shelley, who was instrumental in re-establishing the Catholic Parish of Ushaw Moss, Durham, where he ministered as priest in charge for upwards of 30 years. The late Canon Shelley was of a family who had for generations given able and distinguished to the Church and was connected in a special way with County Limerick. In January last the late Canon visited Ireland, when he met many friends, including Mr P J Walsh (Chairman of Board).
