GIRL INJURED NEAR KILMALLOCK

Our Kilmallock correspondent writes:—As Miss Maureen Darcy (14), daughter of Garda and Mrs. Darcy, Kilmallock, was walking along the road in the direction of Kilmallock with her mother a van came from Kilmallock and, it is alleged struck and knocked down Miss Darcy. She was taken to her home and was medically treated for leg injuries and shock.

James Brilly, Mallow St., Limerick (driver of the van), was later charged at a Special Court held at Kilmallock Garda Barracks, before Mr. W. J. Crogan, P.C., with driving a mechanically propelled vehicle in a manner dangerous to the public.

After evidence of arrest had been given by Garda P. Darcy, Kilmallock, the defendant was remanded on his own bail to Kilmallock District Court on 10th January.

MARITIME INSTITUTE MAGAZINE

Aviation is daily playing an increasingly important role in the development of Irish trade and commerce, and it is fitting that one of our leading periodicals, the "Maritime Magazine," should now embrace this development under the comprehensive title of the "Maritime and Aviation Magazine." This quarterly journal, most useful in the past in focussing attention on our maritime affairs, will to-day have an even more important function, and in its dual role will bring before the public further developments on sea and in the air.

The Christmas issue gives many interesting and enlightening features on the present position in Irish aviation. The growth of the Shannon Airport, unusual illustrations of Rineanna, and pen-pictures of some of the men behind the scenes in our rapid aviation development are a few of the topics treated.

On the maritime side come articles and stories of port development, yachting, the age-old custom of blessing the sea, and the harmonising of sea and air transport
