

O'Connor, who did so much but did it quietly and unobtrusively, are, unfortunately, likely to be forgotten in an age when propaganda and the limelight obscure the facts of history. Let us now hope and pray that in the world beyond the grave, where good deeds are appraised at their true value, Tim O'Connor will get his reward. Ar dheis De go raibh a anam.

THEY HELPED IN I.R.A. DAYS

Mrs. Mary Enright, who died at her residence, Newpark, Croagh, on the 19th inst., was the relict of the late Mr. Thomas Enright. She was the mother of Mr. Chris. Enright, an active member of the I.R.A. during the War of Independence, and Mrs. W. O'Sullivan (then Miss Josie Enright), who also did her share as a member of the Cumann na mBan. During those critical and dangerous times, the home of Mrs. Enright was open at all times to give shelter and hospitality to men "on the run," whose life was forfeit if captured by the enemy. Two daughters of the deceased are nuns in the teaching order of the Sisters of Mercy. There was a very large attendance when the remains were removed to Croagh Church, on Saturday evening, 19th inst., and again when the interment took place in the New Cemetery, Rathkeale, on Sunday. The prayers at the graveside were read by Rev. T. Murphy, P.P., assisted by Rev. H. O'Connor, P.P.; Rev. P. C. Lynch, P.P.; Rev. Fr. Enright, C.C., and Rev. Fr. O'Connor, O.F.M.

EAST LIMERICK COURTS

District Justice H. L. Connor stated at Kilmallock Court on January 24th that the summary court for February would be held and that there would be no sitting of Bruff, Hospital and Kilfinane Courts or Kilmallock Civil Bill Court.

IF CONSTIPATED TAKE BILAX

AVOID harsh and nasty purgatives. Let BILAX, the little vegetable laxative and liver pills, restore normal bowel regularity. Users say they are fine for constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sick headaches and sluggish liver action.
