Women's Hard Luck.
 A great day has passed, and Garryowen's exit from the Cup final. All are agreed it was the hardest of luck that Limerick of a replay, and by its representatives of the Fortune did not smile on us in blue, and many (Cork included) who were on the spot the try was scored definitely that O'Riordan had gone into before grounding the ball for that decided the custody of the Cup. I do not intend this to be an omen for our defeat. We got our consolation with penalty goal-kicks and failed. The referee allowed the score, and that's what counted. Undoubtedly the winners were inefficient of the ball to win the Cup many times over, but the stout and heroic defence put up by the losers was deserving of an honour. There is no doubt but that Tom Riordan's amazing try will live in history, for when Tom and the rest of us have gone over the Great Divide it will be spoken of. Also the magnificent defence of the leading tackling that kept the opposition's team from crossing for 85 minutes, and the superb display of the Staunton.

More writing fits to what is probably the toughest competition in the country. I would like to have the opportunity of sincerely congratulating all the participants who went through a strenuous season with a clean sheet. I once had one of the various excuses cause for complaint, and a better tribute can be paid by saying "Well played."

For Cup.
 I'm sorry I am that I have not the same to say about the junior competition. Speaking of the Limerick and several players have received marching orders for misconduct. Why should this be? The spirit in which last Sunday's game was fought is no credit to the sport, and the sooner that the in-charge sit up and take
