CULTURED LADY PASSES AWAY

The death took place last week of Mrs. Lee, Castleconnell, widow of the late W. F. Lee, who for so many years contributed G.A.A. notes to the "Limerick Leader," under the pen name, "Thomond." Like her genial husband, she was for many years up to her retirement on pension a national teacher by profession. A member of a great teaching family—the Edmonds of Castleconnell—she was a lady of high culture and refinement and of great charm of manner. In poor health for a considerable time back, her condition grew steadily worse since her very popular and good-hearted husband passed away some nine months ago. The funeral took place to the Castleconnell Cemetery after Requiem Mass celebrated by Rev. E. Whyte, C.C. The large and representative attendance at the funeral included several Limerick hurlers and officials of the G.A.A.
