

of the Bank of Ireland our Charleville correspondent has been transferred to and is replaced at Charleville by Mr. W. J. Bowers, Ferns. Mr. Henry was agent at Charleville for the past five years and perhaps, one of the most prominent bank officials of the day. His courteous and obliging disposition has won for him the esteem and confidence of his customers, as well as of the public in general, and his departure from the district is regretted in the district. He has a great interest in the business of the town, and during the period he was chairman of the Charleville branch of the Irish Agricultural Society.

On his departure a dinner was given at the Hotel, Charleville, at which he was presented with a travelling bag by the local bankers, with the assistance of the prominent professional and farming

Mr. O'Connor, Manager of the Charleville branch of the Bank, presided at the dinner, and, in the course of a speech, referred to Mr. Henry's many estimable qualities and the goodwill which he enjoyed in the town.

Mr. J. J. O'Connell, Manager, Munster Bank; Mr. O. Binchy, and other well-wishers also spoke in similar terms, expressing regret at his departure and wished him every happiness in his well-deserved promotion.

Mr. Henry acknowledged in suitable terms and thanked the members for their nice presentation.

RECENT DEATH

The death took place quite recently (writes our Kilmeedy correspondent) of Mrs. Ellen McMahon, Glenview, Broadford, at an advanced age. The funeral, of large dimensions, took place from the Catholic Church, Broadford, to the family burial ground, Tullylease. Rev. Father Enright, C.C., and Rev. Father Browne, C.C., officiated at the graveside. To give anything like a complete list of mourners would be well-nigh impossible.
