

of herds. It was unfair that farmers, making a small margin of profit, and with big overhead costs, should run the risk of losses without any hope whatever of compensation. He thought the Committee should wholeheartedly support any such measure as that suggested by the Meath Committee's resolution.

Mr. O'Donnell seconded Mr.

On the proposition of the Chairman, the Committee unanimously voted sympathy with Mr. Daniel Mulcahy, journalist, on the recent death of his mother. Sympathy was also voted with the relatives of the late Mr. Patrick Liston, Athea, and with the relatives of the late Mr. John Humphries, Cappamore.

UNDERTAKING ACCEPTED

Before Mr. H. L. Connor, B.L., D.J., at Kilmallock Court, Catherine O'Dwyer, Tobernea, Kilmallock, had a summons against Bridget Roche, of the same address, for alleged abusive language and assault.

Mr. M. M. Power, solr., appeared for complainant, and Mr. R. Geary, solr., for the defence.

Mr. Geary said he would give an undertaking that the edfendant would not interfere with Mrs. O'Dwyer in future and would pay £1 costs. His client had been already bound to the peace.

Mr. Power accepted the undertaking given, and the Justice struck out the summons for abusive language and allowed the one for assault to stand.

DEATH.

MOLONEY—December 22nd, at Parochial House, Cappamore, Very Rev. James Moloney, P.P. Interment at Cappamore at 12.30 on Christmas Day. Office and Requiem Mass on Friday, December 27th, at 11 a.m.

SUDDENT DEATHS IN CLARE

Patrick Hartigan, Ralahine, Newmarket-on-Fergus, collapsed and died suddenly after having partaken of his breakfast in his own home. Death was due to heart failure.

Susan Frances O'Connor, over 70 years of age, of Kilmurry-McMahon, was removed from her home by ambulance for treatment at the County Hospital, Ennis. On arrival of the ambulance at the institution it was found that she was dead. On learning of the result of a post-mortem examination, the Coroner (Dr. J. H. Coughlan) did not deem an inquest necessary.

ENNIS CHRISTMAS FOWL MARKETS

The Christmas fowl markets at Ennis were not as big as formerly. Turkeys realised from 2/1 to 2/3 per lb. (live weight). The average price paid for geese was 1/- per lb. The decline in the turkey market is due to the birds being bought by creameries and traders for the export trade and collecting them from the vendors' homes.
