It was unfair that farmers, making a small margin of profit, and with big overhead costs, should run the risk of losses without any hope whatever of compensation. He thought the Committee should wholeheartedly support any such measure as that suggested by the Meath Committee's resolution.

LINK WITH DAYS OF EVICTIONS

The death of Mr. William Barrett, which occurred at his residence, Rathnasare, Rathkeale, on the 15th inst., removes another link with stirring times that are now quickly passing from the ken of living memory. A son of the late James Barrett, who with his family suffered eviction in the days when landlordism was doing its worst to break the spirit of the people, it is not to be wondered at that the deceased was an active and consistent supporter of every national movement from the time of the Land League down to Sinn Fein and the war of independence. The remains were removed to St. Mary's Church, Rathkeale, on Monday evening and the funeral, which was very large, took place to the adjoining cemetery on Tuesday. The officiating clergy were:—Very Rev. Canon Mangan, P.P., V.F.; Rev. M. O'Brien, C.C.; Rev. T. Costello, C.C., and Rev. G. Enright, C.C.

RATHKEALE RESIDENT'S DEATH

The death of Mr. Daniel Frawley, which occurred at his residence, Abbey View, Rathkeale, on the 19th inst., is deeply regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends in Rathkeale and adjoining parishes.

An industrious and successful farmer, deceased had also a thriving business as a merchant in Rathkeale town, where himself and his family have always been highly respected and esteemed. Upright and steadfast and strictly honest in all his dealings, Dan Frawley was a man of the highest integrity, of whom it could be truly said his word was his bond.

The remains were removed to St. Mary's Church on Friday, and the funeral, which was of extra-large dimensions, was held to the New Cemetery, Rathkeale, on Saturday.

The prayers at the graveside were read by Rev. M. Frawley (nephew), assisted by Very Rev. Canon Mangan, P.P., V.F.; Rev. M. O'Brien, P.P.; Rev. T. Costello, C.C.; Rev. J. Lyons, C.C., and Rev. G. Enright, C.C.
