DEATHS IN GLIN AREA

Mr. Patrick Scanlan, Kinnaird, Glin, took suddenly ill during the night and passed away shortly afterwards. Deceased retired to bed as usual but during the night called his sister and said he was not well. She made tea and toast for him and went for more to the kitchen and when she returned he was dying and expired in a short time. Dr. Barrett and Rev. Father Carroll, P.P., were quickly in attendance. Greatest sympathy is offered to the bereaved family.

The death of Mr. J. King, farmer, Clounlehard, Ballyhahill, took place unexpectedly at the home of his sister (Mrs. Coolaghan), Tarbert, where he had been on a short visit after returning from hospital. Deceased, who was unmarried, was a member of an old family of the farming class. Deepest sympathy is offered his family at Ballyhahill and Tarbert.

The death also took place during the week of Mr. Thomas Dillane, farmer, Ballinagore, Glin. Deceased, a member of an old Glin Nationalist family, was father of Sister M. Immaculate, Convent of Mercy, Waterford. Deepest sympathy is offered his family.

... anxious that as many of the public as possible should become members, and once again they would like to take this opportunity of appealing to them to do so. Membership fee is £1 and should be sent to the Secretaries, 8 The Crescent, as soon as possible. Members have free entry to all auditions held under the auspices of the Feile, and will be admitted to the Dramatic entertainments each night on presentation of their membership
