Cilfinane Gaelic vening of last ed to hold a nts in connecwrites our Kilnt). Among earance of Mr. heavy-weight a boxing conother contests f the leading unster. There xhibition from seum Dublin, articles of histhe 1916 om ere will also be between four spondent) Mr. brarian, visited renewed the local library now in stock range of subsame suitably a very large and the service and highly applity.

DIO HEM

R LIBRARY

ONTINUES.

ined its high et on Saturday nds at £10 per piece of charcoal dipped in water. It reads:

"I am now momentarily expecting death for my God and my Saviour. This has been the sole object of my desires in my vocation to the Indies. How happy I am to find it realised at last after all my prayers and toils. . . The only crime I am accused of is that of having taught the law of Jesus Christ, and of having combatted the worship of idols; when virtue is a crime to suffer is glory."

The following day his head and hands and feet were cut off and his body was impaled. To suffer thus for such a cause was certainly a glory. On Sunday next the Catholic Church will bear testimony to it.

DEATH OF THE OLD TIME DANCING MASTER

The death of Patrick Scannell, of Dromtrasna, Abbeyfeale, at the age of 85, removes from West Limerick the last of the "old time" dancing masters of half a century ago (writes our Abbeyfeale correspondent). Once on a time he used to hold a Dancing School, where all the boys and girls of the disassembled to learn the trict "Reason Step," and all the more complicated Irish dances of which "Brud" Scannell, as he was popularly known, was a master craftsman. He enjoyed excellent health until a short time before his death. There was a large attendance of the public at the funeral, and at the interment in Glantine Cemetery.

founders for treatesting job will a £2,000 and in this felt that the citize that the burden will be once again belfry with appropriate that the burden will be once again to the belfry with approximately.

over to a well-k

BOROUGH BOU

Surprise is be certain quarters on the part of the Government in co on the application Borough Boundar having regard to extension proposi opposed on behalf the Minister mus and consideration raised. It must a that any alterat existing line of necessitate certai a process that is cumbersome. It granted that the

will be made kno

local authorities v

the rate for th

1948-49.